In this Issue:
- Book Sale Coming
- Library workshops
- Juvenile Room Makeover
- New Resources Bin
- ODU Reading Corner
- Note: extended hours and holiday hours
- Exploring Catholic Literature

Join us in celebrating
National Library Week
April 15-21, 2007
and
National Library Workers’ Day
April 17, 2007

ANNUAL SPRING BOOK SALE
Friday, April 13 through Sunday, April 22
Spangler Learning Center Lobby
Spend $10 and get a coupon for FREE coffee or tea from Common Grounds!

Spangler Building Hours
Mon.-Thurs: 7:30 am–10:00 pm
Fri: 7:30 am–8:00 pm
Sat: 8:00 am–5:00 pm
Sun: 1:00 pm–9:00 pm

Extended Hours
Sun. April 29: 1:00 pm – Midnight
Mon. April 30: 7:30 am - Midnight
Tues.-Thurs. May 1-3: 7:30 am – Midnight
Sun. May 6: 1:00 pm – Midnight
Mon.-Wed. May 7-9: 7:30 am – Midnight

Holiday Hours
Thurs. April 5: 7:30 am – 5:00 pm
Fri.-Sun. April 6-8: CLOSED
Mon. May 28: CLOSED

Library Contact Information
Circulation Services  614-251-4752
mailto:circulation@ohiodominican.edu
Reference Services  614-251-4754
888-681-8044
mailto:refdesk@ohiodominican.edu

Current and past issues of fyi... available at http://www.ohiodominican.edu/library/about/newsletters/

Juvenile Room Gets New Look

Thanks to Shirley Gooden, ODU freshman and the library’s Technical Services Student Assistant, our Juvenile room has a fresh new look. Shirley applied her creative talents to the room’s bulletin board and updated the windows to display the recent winners of the Newbery and Caldecott juvenile literature awards.

The library’s Juvenile collection, located on the first floor, contains over 6,080 children’s books and video tapes. The collection supports ODU’s education curriculum, and is a great place for parents to pick up books for their young children.

Subject Guides now in HTML format!

New! The Subject Guides that were available online in PDF format have been converted to HTML-based pages that load quicker and still have the ease of access to the reference links that make these guides so useful. They are available in many ODU curriculum areas. So, check them out at the library’s webpage under Research Help/Research Subject Guides:
http://www.ohiodominican.edu/library/help/subjguides/
Exciting Library Workshops!

Listed below are two of the new workshops we’re offering soon. To view the entire list or to register, visit the Library homepage and click on the Workshops link in the center of the page.

WOMEN’S AND GENDER STUDIES: CORE RESOURCES
Learn about core resources for researching men’s, women’s, feminist, homosexual, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender perspectives in diverse areas, e.g., athletics, psychology, political science, literary criticism, and law. Discover what popular magazines, professional journals, databases, and websites to use for women’s and gender studies research. Registration is required for this evening workshop and must be received by April 3.

- April 10 (Tue), 5-5:50 pm; Location: SL126c
  Sign up

BEYOND GOOGLE - FINDING INFORMATION ONLINE
Do you use Google or Yahoo to find everything online? Then you’re not finding everything online! Learn how to go beyond Google. Find out what your options are. This workshop takes a look at the whole of information online and how to find it. Learn about search engines, specialized discipline-specific directories, databases, and the Invisible Web. Registration is required for this evening workshop and must be received by April 3.

- April 11 (Wed), 5-5:50 pm; Location: SL222
  Sign up

---

ODU Library’s New Resources Bin

Browse the library’s latest arrivals in ODU Library’s New Resources Bin located in Spangler’s third floor lobby. Books, DVDs, and videos are added to our collection weekly, and are listed as “New Resource” in our library catalog.

---

Exploring Catholic Literature

So, what is Catholic literature? Some define it as works by and about Catholic authors, saints, or Catholicism, which includes biblical, devotional, historical, political, spiritual, and theological literature. Others relegate this genre to literary works only—autobiographies, biographies, drama, fiction, novels, poetry, short stories, and films. You can explore this literature in Exploring Catholic Literature: A Companion and Resource Guide and the Encyclopedia of Catholic Literature, available in the library’s reference collection.

A Google search for “Catholic literature,” reveals university courses that explore the impact of such literature on cultural and social problems. Works studied include Flannery O’Connor and Andre DuBus’ short stories, the novels of Graham Greene, Walker Percy, and Thomas Merton, or the poetry of Gerard Manely Hopkins. Also read are the classical works of Augustine’s The Confessions and Dante’s Divine Comedy as well as 20th century works by Georges Bernanos, Dorothy Day, Annie Dillard, Shusaku Endo, Andrew Greeley, Ron Hansen, Kathleen Norris, Sigrid Undset, Evelyn Waugh, and Simone Weil.

You’ll find a rich selection of Catholic literature in the ODU Library. See the library’s print guide in the library literature racks or an online at http://www.ohiodominican.edu/library/help/subguides.

So, pull up a chair and begin reading some Catholic literature. Then, write an article or book review for the ODU student newspaper, The Tower, to build your own literary profile.

- Mary Ellen George, Collection Services Librarian