Try the EBSCO A to Z…
To Search in EBSCO A to Z

Search for the journal by typing the journal title in the title in the search box.
EBSCO A to Z indicates that the Journal of Business Ethics may be available in 3 databases: Business Source Complete, OhioLINK Electronic Journal Center, and Springer Journals.
Let’s take a closer look…

Remember, we need vol. 107 issue 3 May 2012. p. 295–312 of this journal.

Tip: Note which years’ issues are available for your journal. They may vary from database to database as shown here.
Since it looks like the database Business Source Complete has the 2012 volume we need to get the article (in fact each database listed does), let’s find the article.

All you would need to do at this point would be to click on the link to the database Business Source Complete…
Here’s our journal! Now let’s look for the volume and issue...

Remember, we need vol. 107 issue 3 May 2012. p. 295–312 of this journal. You would need to scroll down until you reached the link to Vol. 197 Issue 3. Your article will be listed among the results!

If you have the option, check to see if there is full text for your year.
What happens if I can’t find the journal I need in EBSCO A to Z?

If you don’t find the desired journal in EBSCO A to Z for OhioLINK list of results, there are additional options available:

- Search for the journal in the ODU Library Catalog for an online subscription or print publication (http://library.ohiodominican.edu)
- Search for the journal in multiple subject-specific databases that are likely to include journals cover the content (www.ohiodominican.edu/library/articles)
